Japanese Visitors Prepare for the Paralympics

On Tuesday 13th June, Stormont House School was honoured to receive Mr Hirotada Ototake and Mr Hiroshi Itakura on a fact-finding visit. Mr Itakura is the first secretary for Education and Sport at the Embassy of Japan in London. Mr Ototake is a well-known sports writer in Japan. He was born without arms or legs due to a genetic disorder called tetra-amelia syndrome and became famous in Japan for his best-selling memoir, 'No-One's Perfect'. The visit was a part of the research which the Japanese Olympic committee are undertaking to find out how the Olympics impacted on the participation in sport by students in schools in London and how they can try to make sure that the Olympics which will be in Japan in 2020 will leave a long standing impact on the sporting participation of the students in their country.

Mr Alan Walsh (Sports Coordinator with Hackney Learning Trust) led the discussion with our two visitors, Stormont House was represented by Mr McDonnell and Mr Hajdrych who both spoke about the impact the Olympics had on students from our school. The visitors were given a tour and were able to see a PE lesson where students from 10F undertook a game of wheelchair basketball. Our guests were very impressed by what they saw and the information they received about our experiences.

London Youth Games - Swimming Competition 2017 - Beckenham Spa

Joe (Year 12) and Victoria (Year 9) took part, alongside students from other schools in Hackney, in the London Youth Games swimming competition at Beckenham Spa. Joe swam wonderfully and came 7th in the 50m free style race. Victoria won a Bronze medal for the 50m backstroke. The Hackney team came 4th in the girls and boys relay, this was a great success considering the tough competition this year (over 30 boroughs).

Mr Hajdrych was very proud of Joe and Victoria's achievement. It was Victoria's first appearance in LYG Swimming! Well done to you both!

Prickly Wire Spinny Nail Exhibition

The final show to exhibit six weeks' worth of work with Stormont House art students and local artist Sam Ayre took place on Thursday 8 June. Work was created in a variety of different materials in response to the Eduardo Paolozzi exhibition at The Whitechapel Gallery. Students had the opportunity to draw, collage, weave, print, use junk, clay and wax to respond to Paolozzi's work and the theme of man and machine. The work was then displayed in a collaborative sculpture, 'An obelisk of ideas, actions and conversations'. Students got to name their show and help plan and select the work to be represented in the exhibition.

The students work was exhibited at The Whitechapel Gallery and parents, family and friends were invited to see the creativity and skill of the student's work. It was a wonderful afternoon and evening and students were rightly proud of their work and excited by the opportunity to exhibit in one of the most famous galleries in London. Well done everyone!
